Forecast For East of England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Thursday 09 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Showers soon fading with late sunshine for some. Dry overnight.

This Evening and Tonight:
Any remaining showers will quickly ease this evening leaving a clear night. Feeling warm and muggy overnight particularly near the coasts. Some areas of low cloud will develop towards dawn. Minimum temperature 17 deg C (63 deg F).

Friday:
A mostly cloudy day with scattered showers across the region, these heavy at times with a low risk of thunder. Some sunny spells, particularly into the evening as showers ease. Maximum temperature 24 deg C (75 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
More settled over the weekend with scattered cloud and plenty of sunny spells, staying dry for most. Warm on Saturday then turning cooler. Light showers possible on Monday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.